Summary of key findings

This provision meets requirements

- The childminder has a good knowledge and understanding of her duty to safeguard children and how to protect them from harm. She has clear policies and procedures in place to help her keep any children she cares for safe, including how to respond to allegations and child protection concerns.
- The childminder understands the importance of assessing children's progress. She knows how to plan a broad curriculum for children of all ages to help them make good progress.
- The childminder has high expectations for children's behaviour. She explains how she helps children to develop positive relationships and how she incorporates sharing, turn taking and respect for others into daily activities.
- The childminder understands the importance of working with other professionals in children's lives and their parents, to help support continuity of care and learning.
- The childminder explains how she builds secure bonds with children to help support their emotional well-being and independence.
- The childminder recognises the need to evaluate her provision, to help continually improve her service and outcomes for children. For example, she knows how to continue with her own professional development to help improve her knowledge and understanding and keep up to date with any changes and requirements.
- The inspector discussed with the childminder how she intends to meet the safeguarding and welfare requirements.

There were no children in the early years age range present when this inspection took place. The findings in this report are based on evidence gathered from discussions with those who care for the children and an inspection of the premises, equipment and relevant documentation. Where there are no early years children present, no judgement is made on the quality of the early years provision as there is no reliable evidence on which to assess its impact on children. The report states whether the provider continues to meet the requirements of registration.
