Summary of key findings

This provision meets requirements

- The childminder demonstrates her commitment to self-evaluation. For example, she confirms that she has accessed training to enhance the quality of practice and provision. Furthermore, she welcomes the regular support and guidance from the local authority early years team. The childminder has made improvements since her last inspection.
- The childminder and her assistant have up-to-date safeguarding knowledge. They know who to raise their safeguarding concerns to if they have a concern about a child's welfare. Additionally, the childminder understands the importance of keeping children safe and from harm. For example, she explains how she will help children learn how to keep safe, such as in the event of a fire and how to cross the road safely.
- The childminder confirms that she will promote children's positive behaviour. For example, she says she will teach children simple rules, be polite, show kindness, share toys and take turns.
- The childminder recognises the importance of promoting children's good health and physical exercise. She describes how she will make use of community resources, such as local parks and farms to provide opportunities for children to have lots of exercise and fresh air.
- The childminder understands the importance of working in partnership with parents. She confirms she will regularly share important information with them to keep them fully informed. For example, she says she will tell parents what she intends children to learn next, the progress they make and daily activities provided.

There were no children in the early years age range present when this inspection took place. The findings in this report are based on evidence gathered from discussions with those who care for the children and an inspection of the premises, equipment and relevant documentation. Where there are no early years children present, no judgement is made on the quality of the early years provision as there is no reliable evidence on which to assess its impact on children. The report states whether the provider continues to meet the requirements of registration.

Inspection activities

- The inspector discussed any continued impact of the pandemic with the childminder and has taken that into account in their evaluation of the provider.
- The childminder showed the inspector the premises and discussed how they ensure it is safe and suitable when children are present.
- The childminder and inspector discussed how the curriculum will be implemented and the impact that this will have on children's learning.
- The childminder and the inspector discussed how the childminder organises her early years provision, including the aims and rationale for their early years foundation stage curriculum.
- The childminder provided the inspector with a sample of key documentation on request.

We carried out this inspection under sections 49 and 50 of the Childcare Act 2006 on the quality and standards of provision that is registered on the Early Years Register. The registered person must ensure that this provision complies with the statutory framework for children's learning, development and care, known as the early years foundation stage.
